JUDGING

The Essay Chair of the F.S.R.T. shall name three judges, who are in good standing of the F.S.R.T. or specialists in allied fields deemed competent to evaluate the papers. They will be known only to the Essay Chair and the F.S.R.T. President, responsible to them and their decisions will be final. Judging will be based on the following criteria:

Evidence of individual effort or ingenuity; and/or a new position, device, technique or principle in a diagnostic procedure; or a new application of an existing position	Outstanding	- 15
	Above Average	- 10
	Average	- 5
	Little or none	- 0
Educational value and interest to the field of radiology	Outstanding	- 15
	Above Average	- 10
	Average	- 5
	Little or none	- 0
Organization of material - Is material presented in a logical and orderly sequence: If visual material is used, is it necessary, and if not used, is the text self-explanatory?	Outstanding	- 15
	Above Average	- 10
	Average	- 5
	Little or none	- 0
Technical level of presentation - Is the paper too technical or overly simplified? Is the material understandable and readable? readable?	Outstanding presentation	- 15
	Above average presentation	- 10
	Average presentation	- 5
	Too technical or too simplified	- 0
Grammar, spelling and neatness	No errors	- 10
	Very few errors	- 7
	Some errors	- 4
	Many errors	- 0

A minimum number of points will be assigned to each category and placement. In order to win a specific placement, the essay, when judged, must meet that minimum point level. For example, to win the Presidential Award, a technologist's paper must score an overall average of 50 points from each judge. Therefore, if there are three judges involved, the essay must score 150 total points to win the award.

The assigned minimum points per category are:

Technologist Paper:	- Average of at least 50 points per judge
Student Papers:
First Place	- Average of at least 50 points per judge
Second Place	- Average of at least 45 points per judge
Third Place	- Average of at least 40 points per judge

If these minimum points are not met, there will not be an award given for that particular place standing. Additionally, a total of 10 student papers must be submitted for the competition to be held. If fewer than 10 student papers are submitted, the papers will be returned to the authors with a cover letter explaining that the competition has been cancelled.
